(Reading)

1 Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below :

Keep your watch accurate. For some people, moving up the time on their watch will help them get up early. For others, they will remember that the time on the watch is wrong and will disregard it altogether. It may be helpful to set your watch just two minutes ahead instead of five or ten.

Keep a clock, phone, computer or anything that displays time in each room of your house. One of the easiest ways to run late is simply by not realising that the time is passing as quickly as it is. Set all your clocks and watches to the same time. Don't be an optimist. Things usually take longer than what you'd expect, even without major delays. If you have a dinner appointment at 7:30 pm, then take a bath, dress and reach on time. Realistically calculate the time, you will take at each step and then add 10 minutes, more to allow for unexpected delays, or you can not get to your job done in time.

Wake up when you are supposed to wake up. Don't hit the snooze button, keep on lying in bed, and watch TV at the very start of your day. Maybe you can try even setting your clock 10 minutes earlier than you need. If you have difficulty with this, move your alarm clock to somewhere away from your bed; that way you will have to get up to turn it off. Commit yourself to being 15 minutes early for everything. If you have to reach your place of work at 8:00, don't even tell yourself this. Just tell yourself (and everyone else who listens but don't annoy them or make them think that they are late or early!) "I have to be at work at 7:45." If you do this, you will be on time even with little unforeseen delays. You will be on time even with a traffic jam.

- 2 Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below :

New laws can start in either the House of Lords or the House of Commons. They are usually proposed by the government. They may be proposed by ordinary members. A law which is being proposed is called a Bill until it is passed, then it becomes an 'Act' of Parliament.

The Bill first of all goes through its first reading – the title of the Bill is announced and a time is set for discussions. The second reading is really a debate. The Bill may be rejected and this causes the government to resign. On the other hand, it may be passed, or there may be 'no vote'. If this happens, it goes on to the committee stage where a small group of members meet and discuss it in detail.

When the Bill is passed by both the Houses it goes to the Queen for the Royal Assent. A Bill may not become law until the Royal Assent has been given. But it doesn't mean that the queen decides on what will become law and what will not. This is the law-making procedure in Britain.
